Features

- 1 Web of Life
65 Hawley St
Mindscape Studio/Snow Raven
Bucharest, Romania/Sakha Republic

Live performances from singer Snow Raven all night long immersed in a surreal animated canvas. Web of Life is a captivating representation of the interconnectedness of all life forms from individuals to communities to animals inspired by Arctic Siberian Sakha culture.

Supported by: Northeastern Coporation
- 2 Light Session
79 Collier St
Los Romeras | Madrid, Spain

Imagine the soulful beats of jazz represented visually in a dazzling array of colors and shapes. Light Session seamlessly integrates music and architecture. The play of light paints a narrative of jazz on the facade and builds into a big band finale.

Supported by: City of Binghamton
- 3 Second Nature
49 Court Street
Yann Nguema | La Rochelle, France

A blend of architecture and algorithm, this visual poem transforms a traditional facade into an entrancing ballet of light, where historical grandeur and modern innovation exist in striking harmony punctuated by a precision laser performance.

Supported by: VISIONS Federal Credit Union
- 4 Beyond Wall Street
Ticketed Feature 8:00 pm-12:15 am
Visit lumafestival.com/tickets
Playmodes | Barcelona, Spain

Beyond is an epic, immersive installation that transforms your perception of the relationship between space and time. A long tunnel creates an overwhelming sense of endless depth and monumental scale. The work's intense audio invites you to "travel without moving" in a collision between inner and outer, darkness and light.

Supported by: Wireless Film Lights
- 5 Re-Naissance
95 Court St
Glitch | Charleroi, Belgium

From the first steps of civilization to towering skyscrapers, the stone has witnessed all. An artifact of enduring humanity, it symbolizes a pulse and evolution across time. It's a journey during which we are urged to consider the stone not just a marker of time, but an actual living entity.

Supported by: Tioga Downs
- 6 Infinite Horizons
78 Exchange St
Maxin10sity | Budapest, Hungary

An interstellar journey joyfully celebrating humanity's dreams of cosmic conquest. We're accompanied by the constant, unyielding stride of a single, solitary astronaut through a hundred worlds, each more unimaginably exotic than the next. And this is only the beginning...

Supported by: Broome County
- 7 Peg Johnston Living Lights Project
196 State St
Cooperative Gallery 213

Artists of all background, skill and technique take their first curious steps toward projection mapping. This immersive gallery of still moments bridges the gap between tradition and digital. The first 30 minutes feature children's work followed by community artists and those from far beyond.

Supported by: Davidson Fox
- 8 What We Bring Commercial Ally
Ariana Gerstein | Binghamton, New York

Inspired by an old street in Athens related to Gerstein's latest documentary where vibrant clothes hang from above like decorative lights. "What We Bring" explores our connection with the fabrics we pack and wear--and the deeply personal memories they hold.

- Artist Q&A: Snow Raven
223 State St | Broome County Arts Council
Saturday, 6 PM

Vocalist Snow Raven, featured in this year's "Web of Life", will share her experience working with the LUMA team and artists from Mindscape to create a hybrid live/projection mapping feature celebrating both her indigenous culture and the visual aesthetic of the animation team.

Placid Thoughts From Inside Her Eyelids
30 Front St | Roberson Museum
Friday 12-9 PM • Sat 12-5 PM

Anna Warfield contributes to a larger conversation about the complexities in feminine identities through her text-based soft sculptures. She controls space, builds on the history of women's work, and uses femme aesthetics to embolden the conversation.
